MODERN LIBRARY TO ADORN LISNER IF PLAN ADOPTED

Elaborate Specifications For Re-construction of Building Need Administration Approval

A Lisner Hall reconstructed to contain a library which will be modern in every detail may soon greet the eyes of students on this campus if plans which have been drawn by Professor Norris I. Crandall with the assistance of students in the Architectural School are approved by President Marvin and the Board of Trustees of the University.

No detail has been overlooked in the plans for the changes. The rebuilt library would provide every comfort and every advantage to be derived from the latest improvements in library equipment and comfortable reading facilities.

Whether these plans for the beautification of Lisner Hall, for the adequate care of the main portion of the University's valuable library of 100,000 odd volumes which at present is poorly housed, and for the comfort of the students are to be used is a question that has not yet been answered, according to President Marvin. Preparation of the plans has required much time and labor, and correspondingly the cost has not been a small one. The administration therefore may be seen to be greatly interested in the matter.

Would Tear Out East Side

The specifications call for the tearing out of the internal portion of the east side of Lisner Hall from basement to fourth floor; the redecoration of the center room on the first floor which is now used as a stacking room; the tearing out of the office of Professor Schmidt, director of the Division of Library Science; the addition of a large reading room on the north side of the building facing the campus; the construction of a vestibule, and a stack room, in the portions of the present building which are to be torn out.

No half way effort is represented by the plans. Where now is the office of Professor Schmidt, piled to overflowing with volumes and pamphlets, some of extreme value, would be an oak paneled vestibule, beautifully decorated with appropriate paintings.

The present reading rooms would be completely demolished as well as a part of the basement on the east side of Lisner Hall and in their stead would rise a stack room lined with steel shelves in six tiers, with a capacity of 150,000 volumes. This stack room would contain practically all of the volumes except reference works now housed in Lisner Hall and would be open only to library workers and assistants.

Plan Desk Room

Where now in the center of the first floor is a large room containing thousands of uncatalogued and in some cases valuable volumes, would rise a catalogue room with entrances from the vestibule, where students might refer for the listings of books they desire, and a desk room where all requests for books would be required to be placed. No book might leave the stack room until a record of the transaction was filed in the desk room.

A large room capable of seating 420 persons comfortably would be built across the rear of the present building where now are classrooms; the rear of the reading room, and an arway. The desks in this reading room would be the same as those used in the present main reading room and would be supplemented by tables. Concealed lights would be placed on each desk to assist individual readers. Overhead lighting would also be provided.

Alpha Lambda Delta Frat Initiates Eight '34 Women

Honorary Society Ceremony Follows Annual Banquet Tonight;
New Members Have Maintained Average Over 2.5 Since
Matriculation; Mrs. Barrows Gives Welcome

Helen Arons, Rosalie Borisow, Jean Christie, Helen Clarke, Zora Krynsky, Beatrice Oxenburgh, Blanche Widdome, and Hilda Zwilling, freshmen women who have entered the University since February, 1930, and who have made an average index of not less than 2.5 since matriculation, carrying not less than nine hours each semester, will be initiated into Alpha Lambda Delta, freshman honor society, tonight at the University Women's Club, after the annual banquet.

The eight girls were presented to the freshmen women's assembly, Wednesday, April 1, by the tapping ceremony which, modeled after the custom of Yale fraternities, is to become the tradition of the sorority. After a short address by Marian Fick, president of Alpha Lambda Delta, each of the neophytes was presented by an active member with a white rose tied with red and yellow ribbon, and led to the platform, where Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of women's personnel guidance, made the welcoming address.

PHYLLIS MILLS

PHYLLIS MILLS HAS DRAMA LEAD

President of Drama Club Plays Big Part In "The Cassilis Engagement"

Phyllis Mills is cast in one of the leading roles for the spring play, "The Cassilis Engagement," by St. John Hankin, which will be presented by the Drama Club on Saturday evening, April 25, at Wardman Park Little Theatre. The tickets, which are 75 cents and $1. will go on sale Thursday at the Bursar's office.

Miss Mills, who plays the part of a scheming demi-mondaine, does this under the pretense of a gentle and gracious hostess.

She has participated in numerous dramatic productions before, the most important being "Julie in Lillom" in the University of Wisconsin spring play. She is president of the Drama Club this year.

Jack Vivian, who is business manager of the production, states that the publicity and production staffs are functioning well. Many posters have been received for the contest, the winner of which will be announced in next week's Hatchet. He also plays the part of the rector in the play.

He has been publicity manager for two high school plays, and business manager for the "Easternite" and "Easterner." He has played in high school and George Washington dramatic productions and has been a member of the club for two years.

Geologic Fraternity Sends Representatives To Install Chapter At North Carolina

Four representatives from the George Washington chapter of Sigma Gamma Epsilon, national geologic fraternity, journeyed to Chapel Hill, N. C., during the vacation and installed a new chapter of the fraternity at the University of North Carolina.

The fourteen men initiated, including the geology faculty, proved to be exceptional hosts as well as a creditable addition to the fraternity's chapter roll, according to the visitors. The initiation was followed by a banquet at "The Carolinian."

Those participating in the initiation were E. P. Henderson, regional vice president of the fraternity; Steven N. Shelton, William T. Jobe, and Alden H. Emery.

After the initiation, Mr. Henderson left the party and visited the feldspar mines at Spruce Pine, the old nickel mine at Webster, and the Rhodolite mine at Mason's Mountain in the Smoky Mountains.

MEXICO CLASHES WITH PORTO RICO IN DEBATE HERE

Corcoran Hall Scene of Contest In Spanish Tonight; Dr. Benner Presides

Dr. Thomas E. Benner, formerly chancellor of the University of Porto Rico and now visiting professor of education at Teachers College, Columbia University, comes to Washington today to preside at the debate which is to be held this evening under the auspices of The George Washington University, between the debate teams of the University of Porto Rico and the National University of Mexico. The debate will take place in Corcoran Hall.

The debaters will speak in Spanish, the question being, "Resolved: That the future of Latin-America depends upon the establishment of closer bonds with the United States on the basis of equality." The Porto Rican debaters will uphold the affirmative of the question, while the Mexican team will defend the negative.

Following closely upon the celebration of "Pan American Day" by the Pan American Union, which calls to the attention of students the growing significance of Pan Americanism, the debate is occasioning wide interest. Members of the diplomatic corps and Spanish scholars from the educational institutions of Washington are among those who have been invited to attend.

Porto Ricans End Tour Here

The Porto Rican team has been travelling in the United States and Canada on a long debate tour, and the debate in Washington marks the end of its trip. The team from the National University of Mexico came to Washington direct from Mexico City for the debate, arriving in the capital yesterday.

Members of both teams are being entertained at luncheon today by Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union, and at tea by Muna Lee, director of the Bureau of International Relations of the University of Porto Rico, who is at present in Washington.

G. W. Students Take Part In Pan American Day Fete

Occasion Observed Under Proclamation by President Hoover

Eighty-five students of The George Washington University appointed by President Cloyd Heck Marvin, at the request of Dr. Leo S. Rowe, Director General of the Pan American Union, represented the University at the observance of "Pan American Day" held at the Union yesterday, April 14.

This day was set aside by President Hoover through a proclamation last year, to stand as a commemorative symbol of the sovereignty of the American nations and the voluntary union of all in one continental community. The Union took occasion to bring especially to the attention of students the growing significance of Pan American relations. The George Washington University has stressed in its curriculum the study of Hispanic American culture through the offering of courses in Hispanic American history and political institutions, and the appointment to the faculty of a specialist in this field.

The students designated to attend the exercises at the Pan American Union included 27 who have come to the University from Central and South America, and a group of North American students who are specializing in Spanish American studies. Professor Alan T. Delbert was the faculty representative.

Students Invited To Hear Wilbur Address Baptists

The Baptist Student Union, under the leadership of Miss Irene McMillan, will preside at the Sunday evening services of the First Baptist Church, Sixteenth and L Streets, on Sunday, April 19. Provost Wilbur will be the speaker of the evening. Charlotte Speiden and Bruce Fowler will also speak, and the Bethany quartet will sing.

Invitations to attend the services are being sent to all the sororities and fraternities on the campus, and some members of these organizations will act as ushers. Those girls who will usher are Kathleen Watkins and Evelyn Kerr of Alpha Delta Pi, Sarah Casteel of Alpha Delta Theta, and Jean Fugitt of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Delta Tau Delta will be represented by John Swartwout, Kappa Alpha by Richard Gizzard, Sigma Chi by Walter Rhinehart, and Theta Delta Chi by William Wolfrey.

Everyone will be welcome and Baptist students are specially urged to be present.

Debaters To Meet Duke In Radio Tilt Thursday

To Argue Compulsory Unemployment Insurance Question

Men debaters of the University will meet the Duke University debate team tomorrow afternoon in a radio debate on the question of unemployment insurance. Raymond Herzog and Robert Parsons will argue for George Washington in favor of the adoption of compulsory unemployment insurance Thursday at 2:30 over Station WJTV.

Prohibition was the subject of a debate with West Virginia held Monday night in Stockton Hall. Winfield Bennett, Ralph Gilby, and James Ronald of G. W., upheld the Eighteenth Amendment while Professor Henry G. Roberts of the Public Speaking Department was the presiding officer.

MEN'S GLEE CLUB SCORES SUCCESS

Make Four Daily Appearances At Fox Theatre From April 10 To 13

After a three-year absence from the professional stage, the George Washington University Glee Club scored a sparkling musical success last week in its appearance at the Fox Theatre. Given four times daily from April 10 to 13, inclusive, the Club's performance was greeted with enthusiasm by its auditors.

The following criticism is quoted from the dramatic column of the "Washington Post," for April 11:

"Easily the highlight on a brilliantly studied program is the George Washington University Glee Club, who have a group of male singers who have graced a Washington stage. The program, accompanied by the Fox Orchestra, under the direction of Maestro Leon Bassiloff, opens with the immortal 'Pilgrim's Chorus' from Wagner's 'Tannhauser,' followed by Brahms' ever-delightful 'Lullaby.' But, until the third number you really 'ain't heard nothing yet!'"

And the way the club hits 'Ol' Man River'—well, it has yet to be sung better! For a justly deserved encore, the club renders their alma mater's spirited 'Hail to the Buff and Blue.'"

The occasion marks the Glee Club's fourth engagement at Washington theatres, it having appeared in previous years at the Rialto, Keith's, and the Earle.

Ragatz Publishes Report Of Historical Association's Annual Meetings For 1929

"The Annual Report of the American Historical Association for the Year 1929" has recently been issued by the United States Government Printing Office, Dr. Lowell J. Ragatz, editor, has announced.

This issue contains the proceedings of the forty-fourth meeting of the American Historical Association at Durham and Chapel Hill, N. C., December 30-31, 1929, and January 1, 1930, and of the twenty-fifth annual meeting of the Pacific Coast Branch of the American Historical Association at Eugene, Oregon, December 27-28, 1929. Likewise, the proceedings of the twenty-fourth annual session of the Conference of Historical Societies at Indianapolis, December 31, 1929, are herein reported.

A section of the book is devoted to the sixteenth report of the Historical Manuscripts Commission which deals with the correspondence addressed to John C. Calhoun, 1837-1849, edited by Chauncey S. Boucher and Robert P. Brooks. This section is proving a very important contribution to American historiography.

Copies of the book have been presented to the Governor of South Carolina, Calhoun's native state, and to the governors of Texas and Oregon—the states which Calhoun helped bring into the Union.

Students Attend Services At Cathedral; Meet Bishop

The Episcopal Club, in a body of fifteen, attended the afternoon services at the National Cathedral on Palm Sunday, and the members of the club had the privilege of meeting Bishop Freeman at a private interview.

Cannon Dunlap personally conducted them through the Cathedral. This pilgrimage was especially important for the reason that a number of the club members are students from out of town and this was their first visit to the Cathedral.

SURVEY REVEALS INTIMATE DETAILS

Hatchet Questionnaire Brings Variety of Witty And Interesting Answers

Questionnaires were distributed recently by the advertising department in an effort to determine how many people read The Hatchet, what parts they like best, what their incomes are (if any), and what advertisers they patronize.

The replies were numerous and instructive, but many of them were from such witty individuals as I. Steal, Will Rob, Ina Minute, May Be, and others too numerous to mention or otherwise disqualified. From the replies selected as typical it has been discovered that four per cent of those interviewed are happily married and supporting families of more than two people. Singularly enough, half of the bread winners were women. These people report that they read The Hatchet in its entirety and one of them thinks it unfair to charge two members of the same family for the paper.

Sixty per cent of the replies were from men who purchased on an average of two suits a year, at an average price of $37.50. One man spends $20.00 a month for flowers, while another only has a new overcoat every five years.

More women than men replied to the questions about clothes and the money spent for them. The average number of dresses per year was eight; the high was fifteen and low was two. The price average for dresses was $15.00, and for shoes, $8.00. Most of the women told their ages and it is suspected that some even told the truth. Ages were from 18 to 35 years.

Boarding houses feed twenty-two per cent of G. W. students and fraternity houses eight per cent. Sixty-two per cent live in homes, while eight per cent live in hotels and apartments. It is not known what apartments and no phone numbers were listed.

Salaries vary from $500 to $2,600 and averaged about $1,800. The highest reported by a coed was $2,400. No mention was made of allowances or for money spent for things other than necessities.

Several people had fault to find with The Hatchet. Most of them read it, and some even read the ads in preference to the news. One person thinks that the "sheet" is (Continued on page 4)

Nominations for next year's Student Council must be in the hands of a student council member or in Dean Doyle's office before 5 P. M., Wednesday, April 22. Elections will be held Thursday and Friday, April 30 and May 1, in the gymnasium, from 11 to 2 and from 4 to 7.

Because of increased enrollment, Columbian College will next year have six representatives, and the Law School two.

Petitions nominating a candidate must be signed by five per cent of the total number of students in the school unless there is more than one representative, in which cases they must be signed by 5 per cent of 500, the number upon which representation is based.

Columbian Requires 25 Names

Following is the number of names required on the petitions from each of the various schools: Columbian (including Junior College), 25; Law School, 25; Medical School, 15; School of Education, 25; Library Science, 5; Fine Arts, 6; Government, 4; Pharmacy, 3; Engineering, 22; and Graduate School, 4.

Unless all the students signing a petition are in good standing in the school which the candidate is to represent, the nomination is disqualified.

Candidates must have completed 45 semester hours work, and had one year's residence in the school, and will be disqualified if their names appear on a written advertisement for a party or coalition.

One For Every 500

The council's membership is apportioned upon the basis of one representative for every 500 students, but no school which has less than this number shall be deprived of representation. An additional representative is also given for an additional 250 students in a school.

Under this system, Columbian College, including the Junior College, with 3117 students, has six representatives; Law School, with 845, two; Medical School, with 292, one; Education School, with 635, one; Library Science, with 105, one; Fine Arts, with 129, one; School of Government, with 76, one; Pharmacy, with 52, one; Engineering, with 444, one; and the Graduate School, with 72, one.

The elections are being held under the auspices of the present Student Council, and the Australian ballot will be used. Lists of those nominated will be posted five days before the election, on Saturday, April 25.

Lutheran Students Will Hear Address By Wickey

Provost Wilbur, Ardent Supporter And Originator Of The Movement For Organization, Will Also Speak At First Club Meeting

Lutheran students of the University will meet in the Luther Place Memorial Chapel at Thomas Circle, Tuesday, April 21, at 8 P. M. Dr. N. J. Gould Wickey, president of the Council of Church Boards of Education in America, will be the main speaker. Provost William Allen Wilbur, who suggested the movement, will also speak. There will be refreshments and special music furnished by members of Luther Place. All Lutherans in the University and all Lutheran pastors in the city are invited.

Dr. Wickey is a graduate of Gettysburg College and has done post-graduate work at Oxford. He is a former president of Carthage College, Illinois. Believing that "the whole educational situation presents an outstanding challenge to the Church," Dr. Wickey is a strong supporter of the religious organizations in our colleges.

Provost Wilbur, a staunch supporter of the religious organizations already on the campus, is eager to see a Lutheran organization under way.

The meeting for Tuesday is planned as the first of two to be held this spring, the second being held later for the purpose of organizing a Lutheran club. To increase social contact among Lutheran students to more closely join the University Lutherans with the Lutheran churches in Washington, and to further religious life on the campus, the club will be formed. For next year, social meetings and study groups are planned.

Professor Raymond Seeger is the faculty adviser and Ralph H. Keister is general student chairman.

DR. N. J. G. WICKY, who will address Lutheran students of the University April 21.

cil of Church Boards of Education in America, will be the main speaker. Provost William Allen Wilbur, who suggested the movement, will also

NOMINATIONS

Nominations for membership on the Student Council will be received by members of the present council or at the office of Dean Doyle up until 5 P. M. Wednesday, April 22. The Hatchet calls your attention to the importance of this announcement.

Each individual member of the student body has a burden of responsibility placed upon him to select as nominees students who are worthy in every respect of holding a position in this student governing group, a responsibility which was not fully accepted at the last election.

Such a body as the Student Council can develop into a powerful force in university life, or it can soon fade into obscurity, dependent upon the type of persons selected to guide its destiny. If, after a careful consideration of the candidates, each voter will pick for nomination only the persons he thinks the most capable, the persons who are known to him to be dependable workers AND SUCCESSFUL WORKERS, the persons who stand out as the leaders in their respective groups, the council may develop into a strong force for good on the campus.

If, however, the impending nominations arise out of friendship, fraternal affiliation, party agreement, or merely out of failure on the part of the student body to display interest, the result will be a royal band of figure-heads—all good fellows to be sure, and well meaning enough, but with one or two exceptions not adaptable to the responsibility offered them; the result will be that the "exceptions" will devote their entire term of office to attempting to convince the council of the importance of its position.

Now is the time for good students to bestow upon this council some of the powers it can rightfully exercise, which can be done by merely nominating for membership on the council only candidates of proven merit, who can be depended upon to utilize to the fullest extent the authority vested in them.

MOSTLY BAD NEWS

Recent actions by D. C. authorities have had no little effect on the life of the University. Since these actions have not yet officially become law, their results may seem superficial, but it will not be long before students realize that two things of importance have happened which may cause a number of changes in their habits and visibly alter the tenor of that part of their lives which they spend in the vicinity of Twenty-first and G Streets.

We speak of the new parking regulations which extend the two hour parking limit to include the east side of Twentieth Street; and the permission granted the Capital Traction Company to tear up its tracks on F and G Streets and substitute bus service in this area.

If our friends up at the Third Precinct make a serious effort to enforce the two hour limit on Twentieth, G, and H streets, law students will be forced to move their autos into the area now occupied by the cars of those students whose headquarters are in or about Twenty-first Street; and the latter will find themselves either over by the gas-works or in the subway garage that we would like to see built in the new Student Union Building to care for the cars of all the lazy members of the Student Council.

There are no office buildings on Twentieth Street or in its immediate vicinity! Seldom does a person who is not a part of this University wish to park on that street. Why, then, require law students who, above all, require concentration, to move their cars every two hours when there is no demand for parking space from outsiders? Of course, mister policeman, we don't own these streets, but if no one else wants to use them, why charge us extra?

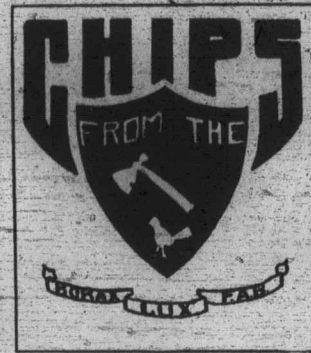

This is only the beginning of the parking limit matter. There will be deeper student rumblings shortly.

Saturday the Public Utilities Commission authorized the purchase of four buses of the street car type by the Capital Traction Company for use in this vicinity. No time is being lost by the Traction Co. in ridding its motormen of the route they hate most.

It will be better for all concerned when the "G. W. track" is torn up for all time and a decently paved street substituted.

But do not suppose that this will rid us of all evil. Bus drivers can be just as wicked as the motorman who tore away the side of an auto parked on G Street last week when the driver failed to appear after repeated "clangs." Recent inventions in the line of bus sirens have approached the ultimate in screeching sound. And heavy buses are fairly sure to shake the University buildings on G Street as they rumble past. It is not a pretty picture to paint, but we want to keep you from becoming too over-joyed at the removal of the pseudo iron-horse from this immediate area. However, G Street will receive the paying it needed five years ago and our front yard will be street-carless, so we can't help but feel satisfied.

Your little pal is back. Ain't you glad? Now that all the various vacations are over, we can get down to some good hard work and finish the year in a blaze of glory. Nothing is more invigorating than to open up textbooks and look up into the smiling and genial faces of the fun-loving professors. Especially now that we have caught up on all our back work during the holidays.

By the by, have you noticed the cow-eyed looks on your fellow students? Love, with all its glamour and romance, has entered into the University with the advent of the spring season. A local professor, while discoursing on love, quoted the old familiar passage: "In the spring a young man's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of love." But girls, you should have heard the terrific emphasis she put on the word "lightly." Many fickle hearts are not asleep in the deep, so beware, be-e-e-ware!

Horrors, dear students! We almost lost our glee club. After one of their memorable performances at the Fox they wandered into the maze of alleys behind the great theater and became totally lost. The Foxettes, hearing their panic-stricken cries for help, rushed out to aid them. Three hours later the Riot Squad had to be called to get them both out.

Dick Castell's dance (so-called publications dance) was a huge success. There were all of twenty people there (these statistics were compiled with difficulty and are believed to include the orchestra.) This said that Mr. Castell lost money on the dance. Money may have been lost, but we bet Mr. Richard didn't lose any.

The Kappas had a swell initiation banquet during the holidays. If the dear girls could only have witnessed the dismayed look on the faces of the dinner patrons when the sorority-national anthem burst forth in unrestrained vigor from the upstairs banquet hall.

At last the double parking evil will disappear on G Street. Street car service is about to be discontinued. There won't be the least fun in double parking any more as long as there aren't any more motormen and conductors to annoy. In a recent questionnaire given to motormen the answers showed that the route past G. W. was the most unpopular. Maybe that doesn't prove we are swell annoyers. We guess our professors would agree to that.

Honor society initiates eight freshmen women. Think of it. Eight honorable women. Oh, well, they are only freshmen. There is hope for them yet.

To whom it may interest: The Rollo Hatchet dictionary is now reposing on a stand. H'ray!

I never have been able to understand the decrease in popularity of the Maryland coeds with G. W. men until the reports of the last rifle match between the female teams of the two schools. Them that wench is sure dangerous with guns. Read the scores and date the G. W. women. They are less dangerous—at least with guns.

Dot Albert says that she's going to publish all the dirt on the campus in the current edition of the Petticoat. If she does it will take a whole damn wardrobe. A Petticoat—Tak. Seems to us that the girls are right impertinent to keep on calling it a petticoat in this day and age. Most of them have never seen one. (Just between us girls, we haven't either.)

Here's hoping you enjoyed your holidays tossing eggs about the White House lawn.

DICK ROLLO.

Student Notices

A new feature in the program of the women's athletic department this spring is a tennis doubles tournament. This tournament will be open to all women in the University and those interested should sign up in the gym immediately.

Free golf instruction is being given Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2:00 to the right of the reflecting pool. (Lincoln Memorial).

Students interested in informal discussion of personal religion—sharing of experience, etc., will find fellowship with others like-minded on Tuesday evenings and Sunday afternoons. The groups, at present, are meeting at 8 o'clock on Tuesday evenings at Foundry Methodist Church, Sixteenth Street N. W., and at 3:45 on Sunday at the Christian Church, Vermont Avenue and N Street N. W.

Margaret Gilligan has been elected student director of the Women's Glee Club. She has studied voice and piano in Washington for several years.

Girls who were requested to sign up at the rifle range for special coaching, are reminded to do so this week.

Tickets for the spring play will go on sale tomorrow at the Bursar's Office. They will cost $0.75 and $1.00. The play will be given at the Wardman Park Little Theater, April 25.

Nominations for the Student Council must be in Dean Doyle's office before 5 P. M., April 22.

The Editor's Mail Box

To the Editor:
Several weeks ago a petition protesting against a militarization of American schools posted in Corcoran Hall for George Washington University signatures was pooh-poohed by some unthinking or unintelligent scorners using pseudonyms such as Ima Fool, Augusta Wind, Lena Galsatt.

One's indignation and bewilderment at the stupendous stupidity of nations preparing for war are greater only in degree than the bewilderment and indignation at the petty stupidity of those scorners who used the signatures Ima Fool, Augusta Wind, Lena Galsatt.

You would do well to protest against such stupidities.

Sincerely,
HOWARD ZAHNISER.

On Other Campuses

The degree of Doctor of Aethelism will be received by the graduates of an anti-religious university after two years' study. Nearly half the 600 students are girls.

Clad only in pajamas, co-eds of Morningside College, Iowa, appeared at breakfast one morning. The college men waiting on the table in the residence hall went on a strike.

Two prominent students at the University of Nevada recently carried off bodily a doorless, windowless, tumble-down shack and consigned it to flames at a homecoming celebration. At about the same time the owner decided to make it over into a habitable building. (Continued on page 6.)

Summoning a Ghost to your bidding

The chemist Van Helmont in 1609 discovered an invisible substance, an emanation from coal, that he named "geist," meaning ghost, shortened in English to gas.

Only now do its miraculous possibilities begin to be glimpsed. Only now can modern industry, like a latter-day Aladdin rubbing his lamp to summon a vaporous genie, turn a valve and order this Ghost to any one of a hundred tasks.

From the beginning, the problem was one of piping. When Crane Co., a half century ago, set itself to develop and produce the right materials for every gas and oil purpose, it began an incalculably valuable contribution to the solution of problems that had held back the gas industry since the Chinese used hollow bamboo.

So in the development of the natural and manufactured gas industry, as in practically every other industry, the Crane line of valves, fittings, fabricated piping, and specialties have played an important part. No matter what branch of industry you enter, you will find Crane materials playing a similarly important part.

INTERFRAT BALL SEASON STARTED WITH 4 CONTESTS

Delts Upset Champion K. A. S.; Phi Sigs Bury Sig Alphas Under 13-2 Score.

Three walkways and one close game inaugurated the interfraternity baseball season of the George Washington College students in its opening match of the season, played last Thursday on the Indian Spring Golf Club course. With competition in four-ball matches, one point was gained by each individual match and one point for the best ball.

John Shorey, champion golfer of the District, won his match with Moore of the visitors, 2 up, while Charles Cole defeated McGrady, of Boston College, 5 and 4.

Johnny Thacker met defeat at the hands of Nugent of Boston, 5 and 4, while Bill Elliott, of the Colonials, was beaten by Troy, 5 and 4.

Notable among the games was the triumph of the Delts over the K. A. S. who by the 13-6 loss suffered their first defeat in two years of interfraternity competition. The two-time champions, lost without four of their winning team of 1929, faltered after gaining an early lead, and were never able to regain their footing.

In contrast, Phi Sigma Kappa, which last year battled the K. A. S. in the finals, got off to a flying start with a 13-2 verdict over the Sig Alphas in a sixth-inning assault, which netted seven runs to break a 2-2 deadlock. Sigma Nu walloped T. U. O. to the tune of 11-5, while the only close game of the day was won by Acacia from S. P. E., in a 10-9 battle. Kappa Sigma and Theta Delta Chi cancelled their game by mutual agreement while Sigma Chi drew a bye.

K. A. S. Falter
Talk about pre-season upsets—Kappa Alpha, two years George Washington University's interfraternity champs, were out-scored to the tune of 13-6 by the Delt fly chasers. The last year's champs presented only a fair aggregation of ball players, and the going from the box by Ferguson was nothing more than the going of the K. A. S. for his teammates failed to lend any support to Vogt, who took up the mound duties. Before the close of the game, four K. A. S. moundsmen had faced the Delt club, but there was no stemming of the tide.

The outstanding performances go to Ferguson, the stellar K. A. S. pitching ace, who turned the Delts back for four frames with but one hit and seven strikeouts, and to Vogt, the K. A. S. slugger, who slammed out three hits, a double and two singles in as many trips to the plate. While individual honors go to K. A. S., the team honors go to the Delts for they flashed a better brand of organized play, tightening in pinches to avert K. A. S. rallies in the closing minutes of play. Keller.

Professor Ruth Atwell Attends Convention Held At Michigan University

Professor Ruth Atwell of the Physical Education Department attended the annual national convention of the American Physical Education Association which was held from Tuesday, March 31, to Saturday, April 4, at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, and at Detroit. At the former, there were 400 physical education directors, and 3,000 attended the regular meetings at the Rook-Cadillac Hotel.

Among the celebrities in this field was a representative of the German Wigman School of Dancing.

Madam Bertram and a troupe of Danish gymnasts, and Nina Sheffield, an authority on swimming from Columbia, representatives of Marjorie Webster and Holton Arms attended the convention.

George Washington Golf Team Ties Boston College

George Washington's golf team was battled to a 3-3 tie by the Boston College styemen in its opening match of the season, played last Thursday on the Indian Spring Golf Club course. With competition in four-ball matches, one point was gained by each individual match and one point for the best ball.

John Shorey, champion golfer of the District, won his match with Moore of the visitors, 2 up, while Charles Cole defeated McGrady, of Boston College, 5 and 4.

VARSITY GRIDDERS RESUME PRACTICE

Many New Faces Are Prominent At Training; Scrub Game To Be Held Wednesday

The George Washington varsity pig skin toters, after a week's respite from the fundamentals and rudiments of the game, reported for practice last Monday, practice meaning, this time, team scrimmage consisting of defensive and offensive play. There is little doubt but what these fellows will put out a brand of football symbolic of their coaching, for it takes plenty of defensive and offensive play to develop a high-calibre football team.

The squad has a number of new faces and among them are found candidates reporting for the first time and candidates from last year's freshman team. From this group Neilson, Jones, Hickman, Olverson, Murray, Fouts, Holmes, Carpenter, Farrington, Nolan and Baisler are really putting out a type of football that is going to make some of the returning varsity hustle and hustle plenty if they are going to be in the starting line-up this coming fall.

Spring practice is to be definitely brought to a close next Tuesday, and to climax the spring training on the Wednesday following the entire squad is to cut into two teams and a battle royal will take place. If there are not any broken bones it will be because the boys are too "tuff" for it is this game that is the determining factor of who and who not are going to be called for training camp in September.

Practices Real Tests
We are not all Metzers, but there is this much about spring practice, if you want to play football, if you want to learn the fundamentals of the game, and if you want to know whether you have the stuff essential to becoming a football man, spring practice is the place for JUST THAT. Spring practice is more than just putting on a football outfit, it is the drilling in blocking, the most stressed phase of football, according to Rockne; running interference, charging opponents off their feet, throwing and receiving passes and fifty other important fundamentals.

We have a football team and a "good one in the offing, and any team, regardless of the sport it plays, can never deliver its best unless the spirit of the student body is constantly backing it. Let us start the coming football season with a bang by getting acquainted with the players who are to tangle personages next Wednesday. Here they are for your benefit:

Fenlon, Kriemelmeyer, Carlin, Carter, Hale, Lannon, Bagranoff, Blackstone, Wilson, Beacher, Kaufman, Jones, Mulvey, Chambers, Chestnut, Hickman, Sommers, Vogt, Olverson, Samuels, Gordon, Murray, Williams, Fouts, Holmes, Blair, Venesky, Hoffman, Carpenter, Nebel, Farrington, Brown, Florence, Morlan, Baisler, and Galloway.

Women's Swimming Classes Get Strict Training Rules

Hard times are ahead for the girls' advanced swimming classes. Beginning last week, strict training rules are to be adhered to by swimming meet participants, say Helen Lawrence and Ruth Aubeck, Physical Education instructors.

Alas! and alack! Cigarettes are to be absolutely abandoned; sweets must be few and far between, the fewer and farther the better; true compliance with that famous old song, "Yes we have no bananas"; and no nice slippery mayonnaise to garnish your favorite salad.

However, they console the girls with the cheerful thought that they are to be allowed one raw egg a day to improve their wind.

Now water stunting is being tried. The girls do surface diving while using the crawl stroke. We don't know yet what it is supposed to represent, but they all come up spouting!

Glider Club To Organize Thursday At First Meeting

The initial meeting of the G. W. U. Glider Club is to be held at 8:00 P. M., Thursday, April 15, in the Lounge Room in the basement of Stockton Hall.

Several G. W. men who are well versed in the science of aviation and motorless flight are expected to attend the meeting. Data concerning gliders, hangars, fields, and instruction will be presented, and matters pertaining to the club's government will be discussed.

Everyone interested in seeing this club assume its natural status of popularity on the campus is requested to attend.

GIRLS DROP RIFLE TITLE TO U. OF M.

George Washington Team Takes Second In N. R. A. Inter-collegiate Meet

The G. W. Women's Rifle team this year relinquished its hold of the national intercollegiate championship which it has held for the past four years to the University of Maryland. The Maryland girls held the title in 1926, but lost it to the G. W. team in 1927.

The G. W. co-eds won second place with a score of 2957 out of a possible 3000, while the Maryland girls topped them by five points.

George Washington got off to a good start by scoring 990 in the first stage, 2 points better than the total of the Maryland team, but fell off in the last two stages.

All members of the competing teams are allowed to shoot in each stage, the five high scores counting on the team total. The scores of Roberta Wright, and India Bell Corea counted in all three stages, while those of Emera Johnson, Evelyn Kerr, and Virginia Sheffield were counted in two of the three stages. Eight women out of ten on each of the teams figured in the scoring, as may be seen from the following scores:

Swimming Becomes Popular Sport With Women Students

The women's swimming season is in full swing with more than thirty competitors out for class teams. Class swimming practices are held at 4 o'clock on Monday and Friday and 3 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday at the K Street Y. W. C. A.

The new managers of class teams are: Freshman—Priscilla Bunker; Sophomore—Betty Monroe; Junior—Grace White; the senior management is still open.

A big interclass meet is scheduled for May 9, with a telegraphic meet with Swarthmore on April 25 and another meet on May 16.

Senior women especially are urged to come out to practices in order to compete in the interclass competition.

Sageser Appointed Fellow At University Of Nebraska

A. B. Sageser, who for the past year has been teaching fellow in Modern European History under Professor Lowell J. Ragatz, was recently appointed a fellow in the history department of the University of Nebraska for the coming year.

On leave of absence from the University of Nebraska, Mr. Sageser has been doing research work here in Washington on his doctoral dissertation on "Civil Service Reform." When he returns to Nebraska he plans to take his Ph. D. degree in history at an early date.

Mr. Sageser will teach under Dr. John D. Hicks, who is remembered by many as having taught here during the 1928 session of the George Washington University Summer School.

Knute Rockne

We pause in spring football practice to pay tribute to the sport world's greatest exponent, Knute Rockne. His influence, as now permanently stamped on athletics, shall always linger, and the game of football as it is played today is perhaps nothing more than the exemplification of Knute Rockne's character; teaching of clean, hard, aggressive football, without sacrificing sportsmanship and love for the game.

Rockne emphasized the point that the big man is not the essential element of the football player, nor is experience the essential element, but the man who understands how to use himself to the greatest advantage. Metzger, that 153 pounds of human cyclone, is Rockne's shining example. Never a story on any sports page relating Notre Dame's victory failed to mention the unbelievable accomplishment—that of decisively outplaying his opponents. Metzger was a campus find and certainly a good one. He possessed the determination to play, reported for the squad, displayed oceans of intestinal fortitude, fought his way to All-American and brought history to his Alma Mater, for his coach, and for himself.

Once upon a time there existed a University that had a very disastrous season, winning nary a single contest. The alumni did not demand the scalp of the coach; the coach did not blame the misfortune to lack of material; the student body did support the team in a whole-hearted manner, cheering lustily whether or not there was any good reason for so doing—and neither the coach, the alumni, the student body, or members of the team said, "Just wait till next year." Obviously, every fable must have a moral—therefore, lay off the opium pipe, Bruno.

Zahn Kept Busy

Mrs. Zahn has asked us to use our good offices to see that "Otis" is glorified no longer in the local press. Since a certain article appeared in the Times of last week, he is so busy answering fan mail that he simply can not find time to tend to the furnace. Why worry, "Otis"? Spring is practically here!

Since it has always been a policy of this publication to keep abreast of the times (shades of Pulitzer), and inasmuch as the spirit of progress seems to indicate that prize contests are the thing, we are pleased to announce that in cooperation with El Ropo Cigars (adv.) the following contest has been arranged. We are submitting two questions, not to be answered plus or minus. All in all, it should be a howling success. The questions:

1. Who killed cock robin?
2. When, oh, when, shall we have the combination football and basket ball banquet?

Take your choice, ladies and gents, answer either one, the prize to be a lock of hair from Mr. Pixlee's forehead. Costs nothing to try, but try to find the answer! Please, Mr. Pixlee... the boys are hungry!

The following was the gist of a conversation overheard by ye enterprising reporter as a practice session of the Spring football season was in full swing:

Youth: Oh, Pop, is that a football player?

RIFLE TEAM WINS SECOND IN INTER-COLLEGIATE MEET

Trails Navy By Narrow Margin Of 12 Points; Barr of G. W. High Scorer

The George Washington University men's rifle team journeyed to Annapolis last week and took second place in the indoor meet of the Middle States Intercollegiate Rifle Association.

Out of eleven colleges competing in the match, the struggle for first place soon narrowed down to the teams representing G. W. and Navy. Navy's supremacy in the standing position gave them their 12-point lead, while the G. W. marksmen excelled in the kneeling position, their kneeling total of 472 being the highest team total ever shot in this position in an intercollegiate shoulder-to-shoulder match.

Barr Stands Out

Captain William Barr of the Colonials scored high individual honors with 281 points out of a possible 300. Barr has performed excellently throughout the season, and recently won the N. R. A. Individual Intercollegiate match.

Scores from the Midwest districts are still coming in, but there is no uncertainty as to the first two places. Iowa State is the strongest of the teams which have not yet sent in their scores.

Now that the indoor season has officially ended, G. W. turns to outdoor competition for new worlds to conquer. West Point is coming here to fire a shoulder-to-shoulder match with the Colonials. Columbus University of Washington may also participate in this match. Navy has been negotiating for a triangular match with Army.

The second largest event of the social season, the Panhellenic Prom, will be held April 24, at the Shoreham Hotel. The 10-piece Shoreham Orchestra will play for the dancers from 9 to 1. Tickets may be procured from the Panel delegates by all N. P. C. fraternity women. By vote of the Panhellenic Council, no stage will be admitted. Tickets will cost $3.

President and Mrs. Marvin, the deans of the colleges and their wives, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert L. Barrows will be patrons and patronesses for the Prom. Cecile Harrington and Della Little are in charge of arrangements.

Members of Gamma Eta Zeta, honorary journalistic sorority, have begun work on the "Petticoat," the scandal sheet which comes out at midnight on the night of the Prom. Dorothy Albert, president of the sorority, promises that "The Petticoat" will publish all the dirt on campus. There will be a complete exposure of all scandal.

Many innovations have been incorporated in this year's edition. Roland Lyon, who has done much art work for College Humor, will draw cartoons for the sheet.

Students of Psychology Of Rats Astonished By 20 Unexpected Babies

The experimental research of Dr. Moss has inspired two of his students to take up white rat psychology. Dick Castell and Bill Hoover collected six of the animals on which to perform experiments. The rats were kept at Dick's residence and he was assigned the job of keeping the two sexes apart. It appears, however, that there was a lack of understanding of rat psychology! Guess what, one month later instead of having the original six the firm of Castell and Hoover is presented with twenty bouncing baby rats. The eminent disciples of Moss are now working on a plan by which they can feed the little rats to the big ones and thus save millions on food bills.

Seven Frats Represented At Professional Council

Purpose and Future Plans to be Discussed Thursday

Seven fraternities were represented at the second meeting of the proposed Professional Interfraternity Council, March 28. Ratification of the proposed constitution had been received from four fraternities, Alpha Chi Sigma, chemical, Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service, Phi Theta Xi, engineering, and Sigma Gamma Epsilon, geologic. It was reported by the acting secretary-treasurer.

Most of the meeting's discussion centered about the statement of the purpose of the organization as stated in the constitution. The opinion was expressed by some representatives that there is no need or even useful purpose for the council.

A mass of material from the National Professional Interfraternity Conference was at hand but no time was available to discuss it.

Meeting Tomorrow
The council will meet again tomorrow night at the Phi Sigma Kappa House, at 8:15.

Discussion of Article 2, Section 3 of the proposed constitution revealed as one of the purposes of the council "to strive for the general development of the sciences and the professions at the George Washington University." It was felt at the meeting that graduates of this University's professional schools will be in an excellent position to render unofficial constructive suggestions to the faculty, because the relationship of professional students to the University is closer than that of art students.

The lack of interest in the council displayed by a few of the professional fraternities on the campus is due to a lack of knowledge of the organization, the Council's backers believe. A strenuous effort to make public the true scope of the Council will be made in order to overcome this deficiency.

Johnson Takes Students To See Industrial Plants

Fifteen Engineers Tour Victor, Auto-Gyro, Westinghouse, Baldwin Locomotive, and Auto Car Works; Visit New York Ship Yards; View Pennsylvania Railroad's New Control System

Dean Johnson and 15 G. W. engineers were in Philadelphia and Baltimore over last week-end visiting the R. C. A. Victor Corporation, the Auto-Gyro Aviation Company, and other industrial works. Dean Johnson and Mr. Letts made the trip by plane and the others by train or automobile.

Saturday afternoon, they inspected the Westinghouse Turbine Plant, the Baldwin Locomotive Works, the Auto Car Company, and the New York Ship Building Company. The new Pennsylvania Railroad Terminal on Broad Street in Philadelphia was inspected by the party, who were very much impressed by the new control system which has recently been installed.

The Westinghouse Plant was visited with a view to the extension of experiments which have lately been made in the G. W. Engineering laboratories. A series of preliminary power runs were made last Saturday with the new high pressure steam generator.

The new sport model auto-gyro airplane was found to be very interesting. The engineers viewed the new model, which caused the Collier Development Trophy to be presented to the Auto-Gyro Company.

Another trip to Baltimore is planned for May 9 and 10.

Commerce Frat Hears Loman Speak On Hiring

Student Body May be Admitted to Lectures in Future

William Moore Loman, employment manager of the Hecht Company and lecturer in the G. W. psychology department, spoke before the Commerce and Economics fraternity at the meeting held Monday evening in Room 15, Corcoran Hall.

Mr. Loman discussed scientific hiring and firing, and gave pointers on how to make an interview with a prospective employer. Following the talk there was a round-table discussion of employment problems.

The Commerce and Economics fraternity was organized this past winter by men who are seeking to foster a greater spirit of cooperation among the students of business administration and the kindred fields. In the program of activities of the fraternity it is planned to present well known authorities on subjects pertinent to the business field. With certain of these speakers it is hoped that it will be possible to invite all of the student body to hear the talks.

Among other plans of the fraternity is the promotion of a more complete library in the field of business.

Glee Club Members Chosen For Parts in Three Operas

Members of the Glee Club have been chosen to sing in the choruses of the three operas to be given here by the Metropolitan Opera Company this week. Twenty-six men will sing in "La Tosca." Tuesday night, eight men will be in the chorus of "Mignon." Wednesday afternoon, and four men are to be in "Peter Ibbetson." Thursday night.

The members of the club had to draw lots for the places, because so many applied.

Literature Group Meets

The Modern Literature Group of the Y. W. C. A. will have supper next Tuesday night, April 21, in the Alpha Delta Pi rooms at seven o'clock before their meeting.

On April 11, the members were entertained at supper at the home of Professor and Mrs. William T. Johnston, before going to the lecture by John Galsworthy in Constitution Hall.

All George Washington women are invited to attend the meeting. Anyone who wishes to do so must sign up in the Women's Building.

Physics Club Plans Program

The Physics Club will meet April 20 in W-22, at 8 P. M. The speakers will be Margaret Wheeler and A. G. McNish of the graduate department of physics.

On March 16, Professor Glenn F. Rouse, of American University, spoke on "The Discharge of Electricity Through Gases"; and on March 30, Professor Tobias Dantsig, of Maryland University, spoke on "In Quest of the Absolute."

Mrs. Marvin Entertains Columbian Women At Tea

Plans are Outlined for Banquet and Committee Work

Mrs. Cloyd Heck Marvin, wife of the president of The George Washington University, entertained Columbian Women at a tea at her home on Tuesday, April 17. Mrs. Marvin received the guests with Elizabeth Cullen, president of Columbian Women, and was assisted at the tea table by officers of the organization.

At the business meeting, which followed, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., chairman of the Program Committee for the annual banquet to be held April 24, at the Chevy Chase Club, outlined plans for the banquet, which is to have a list of important official ladies as guests of honor and a distinguished group of speakers.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle presented the final report of the Committee on Reorganization, of which she is chairman, and told of the progress of the various interest groups formed under the reorganization plan.

Meetings Scheduled

Announcement was made by Mrs. James H. Taylor that the Newcomers Section would meet at Gallaudet College, upon the invitation of Dean Elizabeth Peet, on April 21. Mrs. Charles H. Collier, chairman of the Faculty Section, would meet at her home, 212 Rosemary Street, Chevy Chase, Md., on April 18, at 8 o'clock.

The chairman of the Bicentennial Committee, Mrs. John Donaldson, presented a report on activities of the Bicentennial year, with suggestions for the part which Columbian Women in the part which in the celebration. Her motion that Columbian Women, as part of their observance of the Bicentennial, become charter members of Wakefield, the birthplace of George Washington, was referred to a committee to consider ways and means and with power to act. The committee consists of Mrs. Donaldson, Mrs. Howard Lincoln Hodgkins, Mrs. D. K. Shute, Julia L. A. McCord, and Mrs. James H. Taylor.

Virginia Diedel, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, announced final plans for the benefit at the Arts Club.

The following new members were elected: Mrs. George M. Churchill, Mrs. Benjamin C. Cruikshanks, Mrs. George W. Creswell, Mrs. John C. Eckhardt, Mrs. Watson W. Eldridge, Mrs. Edward E. Richardson, Mrs. J. A. St. Omer Roy, Mrs. Thomas C. Thompson, Mrs. Robert M. Fowler and Katherine Hawley. Mrs. Daniel Webster Prentice and Mrs. J. Lynn Thompson were reinstated as members.

University Thinly Clads Forfeit Track Laurels To Street Car Company

George Washington University track men will have to forfeit their age-old custom of "tearing up the track" to show to the new champions of this favorite outdoor sport, the Capital Traction Company. Therolley service on F and G, between Seventeenth and Twenty-sixth Streets is to go.

No longer will George Washington students have the joy of seeing their "Leaping Lena's" bumped off the tracks by enterprising motorists.

Perhaps the passing of this old friend will serve to bring about that bigger, better and more unified G. W. and, in one respect, bring closer Quigley's and the Library.

Heart Disease Discussed In Article By Dr. Gager

Says Premature Occurrence Disease "Merits Serious Consideration"

Leslie T. Gager, M. D., clinical professor of medicine, discusses heart disease in the last issue of the Virginia Medical Monthly. In part, he states:

"For heart disease, premature heart disease—it is premature, in my opinion, when it occurs at any short of the Biblical age of senescence, three score years and ten—is too common, too disabling to body, too disturbing to mind, often too disastrous to life, for us to give its problem any but the most serious consideration.

"On the one hand are the purely inflammatory types of heart disease, as a cause of which rheumatic infection is the classical and foremost offender, choosing its victims in childhood and adolescence, progressive course. The promising therapeutic results of Small with a specific serum have not been obtained with equal success by Wilson or by Swift, and the effects of tonsillectomy, either for prophylaxis or to prevent recurrent attacks of rheumatic infection of the heart, are far from satisfactory.

"And yet, because these inflammatory diseases of the heart are due to organisms which invade the body from without, faith in an ideal immunity and effort to attain it do appear to me to be justified, rather than a belief that the bacterial diseases are inevitable."

Dr. Gager is visiting physician, George Washington Hospital and Gallinger Municipal Hospital and physician to the Cardiac Clinics of George Washington University and Garfield

Memorial Hospital. He is a member of the American Medical Association, American Heart Association, Washington Heart Association, Medical Societies of the District of Columbia and George Washington University; Washington Society of Pathologists; Biological Society; Harvey Society; and former Fellow of the New York Academy of Medicine.

Always a prolific writer, Dr. Gager's articles on lues, heart disease, diabetes, and the relations of hypertension to cardio-vascular disease have appeared from time to time in the various medical journals.

G. W. STUDENTS ASSIST BENEFIT

Co-Eds Receive Guests; Troubadour Members Sing; Readings And Dances Presented

With the true flavor of the Latin Quarter, the "Bohemian Evening" of the Columbian Women was presented at the Arts Club Saturday and Sunday nights for the benefit of the organization's scholarship fund.

Guests were received by a group of George Washington students, attractively costumed. The program, arranged under the chairmanship of Virginia Diedel, was announced by Daniel Levandowsky as "master of ceremonies."

Wells, Beattie, Nestor Sing
Songs from the recent Troubadour show, presented by members of the cast, George Wells, Dan Beattie and Henry Nestor, were enthusiastically received. Members of the Troubadour chorus, who also sang, were Mary Jane Allen, Christine Spignoli, Margaret Thomas, Margaret Mays, Margaret Maxwell, Kitty Boykin, and Dorothy Schenken.

Thelma England, of the Anna Tillery Renshaw School, gave a reading, "The Lost Columbine." Major Charles J. Ferris delighted the audience with a series of amusing anecdotes, requiring the use of dialect. Dance numbers by Ruth Langley, Thelma Rutler, Betty Lou Cerron, and Hazel Lee of the Carmody Studios; and by Marion Chase and Lester Shafer, with the Denishawn dancers, were interesting spots in the program.

Patronesses included Mrs. Cloyd H. Marvin, Mrs. John Bell Lerner, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mrs. Gilbert Grosvenor, Mrs. Douglas P. Birnie, Mrs. Abram Lisner, Mrs. Clarence Aspinwall, Mrs. Charles H. Woodhull, and Mrs. Stephen E. Kramer. Elizabeth Peet was chairman of the patroness committee.

Mrs. Robert M. Fowler and Margaret Malze were in charge of the ushers and assistants whose costumes were designed by Harriet Garrells.

SOCIETY

Everybody happy? Just read about the teas, bridges, dances, luncheons, and trips that we managed to get around in the 24 short hours of each day of the Easter vacation and you know everybody is happy.

Visitors and Washington friends were honored by teas, luncheons, and banquets. Alpha Delta Pi entertained at a tea Sunday in honor of Miss Margaret Maize, president of Beta Province of Alpha Delta Pi, who inspected the chapter. Representatives from other sororities on the campus attended. A luncheon was given in her honor on Monday. Miss Maize's entertainment was concluded with a supper in the rooms Monday evening when representatives of three sororities on the campus were guests. Alpha Delta Theta was inspected Wednesday and Friday by Mrs. Allen, the province president. Wednesday a tea was given in her honor and Thursday a banquet at the Arlington Hotel. Mrs. Allen stayed at the Carlton Hotel.

Delta Zeta gave a tea in honor of the pledges to Alpha Lambda Delta, Thursday, April 2; Mary Weaver entertained with a tea at her home on Wednesday, April 8; Betty Monroe entertained in honor of Louise Vody, who visited her from William and Mary over the holidays, and Louise Bruce entertained at a tea at her home on Tuesday, April 7.

Coeds had no chance at all of timing their boy-friends, Saturday, April 4. The answer was either "Yes" or "No." Sigma Nu, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Theta Upsilon Omega each had a dance on that date.

And do these sorority women play bridge? The A. D. P.'s played at Kitty Todd's home on Easter Monday, at Kitty Slaughter Boaz's, April 8, and again at Polly Pollard's, April 9, in honor of the new initiates. Betty Rose entertained in honor of her cousin, Nora Rose, from North Carolina, at a bridge party, Tuesday, April 7, where she met some of the members of Chi Omega.

Omega. Rosalie Palmer held a bridge party at her home at Bolling Field last Friday. Alice Mayo and Catherine Palmer entertained the Phi Mu's at bridge, April 8.

Phi Delta held an Easter subscription dance at Kenwood Country Club, April 7. Alpha Delta Pi had their spring formal Wednesday, April 8, at Columbia Country Club. Frances Owen entertained the Delta Zetas at a dance at her home, April 11. Edith Grosvenor entertained with a dinner-dance at the Shoreham on Easter Monday.

Chi Omega entertained Miss Anna Rose, former dean of women, and Miss Linda Jane Kincannon, former registrar of G. W. U., both of whom are members of Phi Alpha Chapter, at a luncheon at the Shoreham, Saturday, April 4, and Ruth DeVane was hostess at a luncheon in honor of the newly elected officers of Chi Omega, April 10.

Marywade Moss entertained at an informal party, April 10.

Delta Tau Delta gave their Easter formal dance at the house, April 2.

Those who went away in search of entertainment were Dot Albert, Marjorie Bacon, and Dolph Atherton, who all drove to New York for part of the holidays. Betty Rees, who spent the first part of the vacation in Philadelphia, and the past week-end at the University of Virginia; Louise Linkins, Marjorie Stauffer, and Edith McCoy, who also spent some of their holidays in Philadelphia; Sylvia Solomon and Adele Apfel, who were also at the University of Virginia, where they attended the Phi Alpha house party; Elizabeth Chamblin, who went to her home in Loudoun County, Va.; Adele Black, who visited friends in Virginia; Jean Westbrook, Betty Reynolds, and Edith Brookhart, who spent two days in the country; and Dolly Tschiffely, who spent the week-end of April 10 at Gettysburg College.

Members of the faculty were out of town, also. Dr. George B. Jenkins, professor of anatomy, returned last week from Chicago, where he attended the meeting of the Anatomists Association from March 31 to April 5. Dr. Joseph H. Roe, professor of Biochemistry, and Dr. George B. Roth, professor of Pharmacology, attended the convention of the American Federation for Experimental Biology, which was held in Montreal, Canada, from April 8 to 11.

The following marriages have been announced: Delta Zeta, Helen Robb to William Dove Thompson; Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Tuesday, April 7, Alpha Delta Pi, Harriet Rose to George Martin; Phi Sigma Kappa, Saturday, April 5, at the Hamline Methodist Episcopal Church; and Marion Kreuter to Stuart Armstrong, Phi Kappa Alpha, April 8, in Milwaukee, Wis.

With only six or seven weeks of the semester left pledging still continues. Delta Zeta announces the pledging of Frances Vaughan on Saturday, April 11; and Delta Tau Delta announces three new pledges—Francis Joseph Smith, Owington Gordon Deik, and Arthur William Haze.

Kappa Kappa Gamma announces the initiation of Marjorie Bacon, Jane Hill, Patsy Joyce, Louise Linkins, Polly Linville, Rosalie Palmer, Mary Sisson, and Eleanor Spencer, on Tuesday, April 7. The initiation was followed by a formal banquet at which Jane Ramey Knox, president of Lambda Province, and Betty Gilchrist, president of the Washington Alumni Association of Kappa Kappa Gamma, were guests.

Presbyterian Club To Elect

The Presbyterian Club will hold its meeting tonight at 7:45, in C. H. 29. There will be election of officers, and a discussion of the newly written constitution.

Mr. V. E. Lowbar, in charge of the Young People's Christian Club of the University of Maryland, will speak. All Presbyterians in the University are cordially invited to attend. Refreshments will be served.

High Cost Of Education In Old Days Was Low

Research Reveals That Old Timers Got Away Cheap; Total Expenses Today Are Four Times As High As They Were Before Civil War

The cost of living for University students, in the early days of Columbian College, was remarkable low, as compared with present-day prices, if we may accept figures recently unearthed from publications of the period by our demon statistician. Indeed, a young man of modest tastes who began his studies in September with three or four hundred dollars in his pocket could reasonably expect to finish up the school year on the credit side of the ledger. Some of our hard-working evening students might enviously wish for a return of those "good old days," if only their present incomes would remain the same.

The following list of expenses is

Novel Study Plan Based On Research And Debate

Method also Includes Open Forum Classroom Discussion

An experiment in having students obtain material through research which has been successfully conducted during the year by Prof. Samuel Flagg Bemis and Frank E. Lorraine of the history department has aroused much interest at the University.

Professor Bemis, one of the authorities in the United States on research work, believes that there is more to be gained from this sort of research than from an ordinary quiz on an assigned chapter in a text. Not only in the seminars and pre-seminars and advanced courses, but in the elementary course is this plan being tested.

The result is a series of debates, conducted by the students themselves, with Professor Bemis and Mr. Lorraine acting as chairmen. Debate squads are organized with four members on each team. Students participating are the honor students of all the classes, students who have been doing outstanding work during the year, and who have been invited to take part in the debate. In every case, after the debate, members of the classes may challenge the speakers, and there is then an allotted time for rebuttal. Classes as entire groups have responded to this opportunity to participate. At the conclusion of the rebuttal, each class as a whole votes for the decision.

Interfrat Season Started With Four Contests

In short, the downfall of the K. A.'s came in the fifth frame, when Vogt took the mound. Before it all ended the Delts had scored a total of eight runs as a result of two passes issued by Vogt, four errors by his teammates and three timely hits by Ruddiman, Keller and Christopher. The Delts, resting with a 10-6 lead, sent in "Old Reliable" Ruddiman to stave off K. A.'s continuous threats to score, and K. A.'s batsmen were retired in rapid order.

Acacia Wins Slugfest
In the other game of League A, Acacia proved to be the more powerful of two slugging combatants, and downed the S. P. E.'s, 10-9. Tied at 8-8 going in the sixth, the Acacians pushed two runs across the pan in their half-of-the-inning and held their opponents to a lone run in the last two frames to gain the decision. After the S. P. E.'s had scored four times in the second, the Acacians rushed their veteran pitching ace, Babe Clapper, to the mound, who held the enemy in check over the remainder of the route.

Helvestine and Clapper played leading roles in the hitting attack of the winners, each getting two hits and scoring a like number of runs. Eight errors failed to handicap the victors, who profited by seven errors of the S. P. E.'s. Two varsity football stars, Chambers and Chestnut, appeared in the line-up of the Sig Eps, but failed to contribute anything helpful to the cause, going hitless throughout the game.

Phi Sig's Late Rally

Misleading indeed, is the final score of the Phi Sig-S. A. E. game which found the former on the long end of a 13-2 score at the culmination of the day's activities. Scoring single runs in the first and second innings while the Sig Alphas were doing likewise in the second and third the Phi Sigs were battled to a standstill for six innings by a fighting S. A. E. team. But "came the storm" in the sixth with the rain coming off the bats of the Phi Sigs, and before the Sig Alphas could retire the third man, seven runs had crossed the platter clinching victory beyond the shadow of a doubt. As if they had not had enough exercise for the day, the Eye Street boys shoved across four more runs in the seventh to run their total to thirteen. Once again, it was little Jack Perry who pitched the Phi Sigs to victory, the veteran hurler showing superb typical of the decade before the Civil War:

Tuition $50
Rent of room, etc. 20
Board, at $3 per week 108
Books 20

Total $198
This list, of course, does not include expenses for clothing, tailoring, entertainment, and transportation.

The cost of living had risen somewhat by 1867, as shown by this itemized bill:

Tuition $60
Room, servant 20
Fuel 16
Use of furniture 12
Board 156
Washing (estimate) 15

Total $281
(At this time bedding was required to be sent to the laundry—at least three pieces every week.)

Today, in 1931, even a very conservative university student can look forward to expending at least $1,000 during the nine months' school term. The following list of expenses is suggested as typical:

Tuition $210
Activities fee 12
Room and board 450
Textbooks 30
Laundry 50
Student Union fund 6

Total $758

If to this we add $200 for clothing and tailoring, $150 for upkeep of an automobile (and most of us need one), and $125 for entertainment and incidentals, we have a total expenditure for nine months of more than $1,250. And if accident or illness befalls, so that hospital and doctor's bills are incurred—well, that's another matter.

Drama Guild To Sponsor Three-Act Play Contest

The Community Drama Guild annually sponsors a competition that is of interest to would-be playwrights. In past years the participants have submitted one-act plays, but due to the unusual interest shown by the contestants and the fine quality of their work last year, it was decided to require three-act plays this year.

Professor Baker of the English department at George Washington is the chairman of the committee of judges. The other members are Dean Wood of American University and Miss Helen Nicolay. Twelve manuscripts have been submitted to date.

form in letting the S. A. E.'s down with only two hits—the outstanding pitching performance of the day. After the third inning, Perry was invincible, shutting out the enemy without the semblance of a hit in the last four frames. Six errors by his teammates caused Perry to whimper not a bit. On the offense, "Otto" Zahn played a shining role banging out three hits. However, a home run by Stehman with two men on base in the sixth inning featured the attack, the blow coming at a critical moment to give his team a safe lead.

Previous to that, Herzog had held the ultimate winners in check while his teammates had given him a 5-4 lead to work on by virtue of three runs in the first and two runs in the fifth innings.

Four runs in the sixth by the Sigma Nu's wiped out the T. U. O. lead, however, and four more in the seventh left the losers too far behind to catch up. Crouch hurled creditable ball for the winners after a shaky start.

WHO'S WHO ON THE CAMPUS

Wilhelmina Gude

Two years ago Wilhelmina Gude came to G. W. and soon was one of the famous figures on the stone campus. She had attended Tech High School and National Park Seminary, where her dramatic ability was noted, and she graduated as class valedictorian. And so this combination of talent, brains, and personality came to G. W.

In both her years she has had the comedy lead in the Troubadours, and each time has proven a hit. She was a charter member of Les Jongleurs and always willing to lend her services and talent when entertainment was requested.

Sports also come under "Willie's" line of ability as is shown in her steady play as side-center on the junior and later on the senior basketball team. This year Wilhelmina won her major letter in basketball and was manager of senior basketball. Last year she won a minor letter in track. "Willie" is the representative of the School of Education on the Student Council. This year she was chosen as the School of Education member for Class Night and was elected secretary of the graduating class.

Hour Glass, honorary activities fraternity, chose her as one of the most outstanding women on the campus to be one of its number. She has also been an honor student in her short time here and will leave a place hard to fill.

She is a member of Pi Beta Phi fraternity.

SENATOR'S WIFE HEADS SPEAKERS AT CLUB BANQUET

Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes To Address Columbian Women April 24

Mrs. Frances Parkinson Keyes heads the group of distinguished speakers for the twenty-fourth annual banquet of Columbian Women of the University, which is to be held the night of Friday, April 24, at the Chevy Chase Club.

Mrs. Keyes, in official circles Mrs. Henry W. Keyes, wife of the Senator from New Hampshire, has an international reputation as a writer and editor. At present she is in Porto Rico, where she went to "cover" the visit of the President, and where she has lingered after the departure of the Presidential party, to make an analysis of conditions there. Her speech at the Columbian Women banquet will probably be her first public utterance following her return, and is anticipated with keen interest.

Holds Honorary Degree

In speaking for Columbian Women, Mrs. Keyes will appear before fellow alumnae of the University and fellow members of Columbian Women. She holds the honorary degree of doctor of letters from the University, in recognition of her achievement in the field of literature and has long taken an active interest in the work of Columbian Women.

A group of songs, in keeping with the spring spirit and the cherry blossom season, will be given by Miss Henriette LeMenger, a young Washington singer who has studied here and abroad, accompanied by Miss Harriet Nash at the piano.

Miss Elizabeth Cullen, president of Columbian Women, will preside at the banquet, which will be attended by an interesting group of University women. To further the sociability and cordial atmosphere of the occasion, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., chairman of the Program Committee, is asking a group of Columbian Women to act as assistant hostesses. These members will have distinguished marks, the University colors, buff and blue, worn "ambassador" fashion; and they will move among the 300 guests who will attend the banquet, supplying introductions where necessary.

Assistant Hostesses

Among the assistant hostesses will be Miss Alice Henning, sister of the dean of the Graduate School; Mrs. John Donaldson, wife of the acting dean of Columbian College; Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, wife of the dean of the Junior College and a former president of Columbian Women; Mrs. Oscar Benwood Hunter and Mrs. Joseph H. Roe, wives of assistant deans of the School of Medicine; Mrs. Charles C. Collier, wife of the acting dean of Law School; Mrs. John R. Lapham, wife of the dean of the School of Engineering; Mrs. Louis F. Bradley, wife of the dean of the School of Pharmacy; Mrs. William Carl Ruediger, wife of the dean of the School of Education;

Mrs. Stephen E. Kramer, wife of a member of the Board of Trustees; Mrs. D. Kerfoot Shute, wife of the professor emeritus of Ophthalmology, and a former president of Columbian Women; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, a former president of Columbian Women; Mrs. James H. Taylor, wife of the executive officer of the Department of Mathematics; Mrs. Dewitt C. Croissant, wife of the executive officer of the Department of English; Mrs. James E. Pizlee, wife of the director of the Department of Physical Education for Men; Mrs. Samuel F. Bemis, wife of the executive officer of the History Department; Mrs. Robert F. Griggs, wife of the executive officer of the Botany Department.

On Fashions

For Men

The trend in shirt styles for spring is definitely toward shorter point collar, attached shirts. Any collar point much over three inches in length is not good style. There is also a definite trend to the Prince of Wales tab type collar, which is, of course, short; and the style with short round point collar held at the bottom by a collar pin. These style trends are especially dominant among the university type of customers.

Plain shades and plain shade effects dominate this spring. By plain shade effects are meant narrow stripes, placed close together. The big colors are blue, green, tan and white. There is some tendency toward grey, which seems to be returning as an important color. However, we do not advise its being worn with the many grey suits used this season, as it makes a monotonous ensemble.

ment; Mrs. W. Hayes Yeager, wife of the Dewey Professor of Public Speaking and executive officer of the Department of Public Speaking;

Professor Anna Pearl Cooper, of the English Department; Professor Ruth Harriet Atwell, director of the Department of Physical Education for Women; Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of Women's Personnel Guidance; Mrs. John Paul Earnest, wife of the professor of Law; Mrs. Audrey L. Smith, wife of Professor Smith of the English Department; Dean Elizabeth Peet, of Gallaudet College; Miss Edna A. Clark, one of the founders of Columbian Women; Miss Ruth H. Bennett, Mrs. William E. Chamberlin, Mrs. Henry W. Draper, Mrs. Frank E. Edgington, Dr. Ella M. Enlow, Miss Ruby Nevins, Miss Margaret Pepper, Mrs. Maurice Rosenberg, Miss Rhoda Watkins, and Miss Emilie Margaret White.

Club Has History

One of the first women's clubs in Washington, Columbian Women has devoted itself to educational work for the past 36 years. As set forth in the published constitution and by-laws, printed in 1895, and a copy of which is a prized possession of Mrs. D. K. Shute, one of the first members, the objects of the organization are "the advancement of women by founding for them scholarships in the various departments of the University, and by other means; also the promotion of the interests of the University."

These objectives have been diligently pursued throughout the history of Columbian Women, and have resulted in a series of accomplishments in behalf of the University and its women students, ranging from the endowing of scholarships and the raising of a $20,000 fund for a women's room in a new University building to the sponsoring of many important University social events. This year has been one of unusual growth and development within the organization and the broadening of the activity of its 600 members through the organizing of interest groups or sections.

In this early publication of Columbian Women appear the names of 60 women, seven of whom are still active members and will attend this celebration of the 36th anniversary. They are Mrs. Charles E. Munroe, wife of the internationally known scientist; Mrs. D. K. Shute, wife of the eminent ophthalmologist and professor emeritus of the University; Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley, wife of the late Dr. Wiley and a past president of Columbian Women; Mrs. Grosvenor Jones, wife of the head of the Division of Finance and Investment of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; Mrs. Hanson T. A. Lemon, wife of the late Dr. Lemon; Miss Anna S. Hasleton, and Miss Edna A. Clark both of whom were among the original thirteen women to matriculate in the University.

Mrs. Chris. Heurich Aids In Campus Development

Landscaping of the grounds of Building A, where offices of the president and provost are located, was begun recently, the first tree planted being a dogwood presented by Mrs. Christian Heurich from the grounds of her country place.

Mrs. Heurich, who is the mother of two George Washington graduates, has taken a deep interest in the development of the University campus. She was the financial sponsor for the Twentieth Century Club Garden, created in the rear of the Home Economics Building as a project of the garden section of the club, and has been the donor of other gifts to the University.

Camera Club Will Organize

All students interested in amateur photography are invited to attend a meeting which will be held Friday, at 8 P. M., in Room 1, Corcoran Hall. Warren Wells, staff photographer of The Hatchet, will act as chairman of the meeting. Provost Wilbur will speak of the purpose of the Camera Club and introduce Emmet R. Bonde of the Eastman-Kodak Company, who will outline the club plan successfully used at Maryland State University.

Spanish Club Invited To Tea

Mrs. Muna Lee and Luis Munoz Marin extend an invitation to the officers and members of El Club Espanol of George Washington University through the president, Raymond Mealy, to attend a tea today from 4 to 6 P. M., at the Alra Belmont House, 144 B Street N. E., given in honor of the debating teams of the University of Porto Rico and the University of Mexico.

SUMMER HATCHET TO ORGANIZE SOON

Students Desiring Positions Should Make Immediate Written Application

There will be three issues of The University Hatchet during the period covered by the summer sessions, instead of the one of last year, if present plans are carried into effect. The summer issue of 1930 was the first attempted, and the success with which it met has apparently placed the publication on a permanent basis.

The first issue will appear at the time of registration, and this will necessitate the organization of a staff prior to the opening of summer school. Any student planning to attend the summer sessions at George Washington who would be interested in working on The Hatchet should make immediate application in writing to Winfield Weitzel, editor, The University Hatchet.

Men and women who are unable to find spare time to devote to outside activities during the winter will welcome this chance to participate. Those who desire to become members of The Hatchet staff next fall, and who are registering for summer classes, should take the opportunity to demonstrate their ability. Reporters now affiliated with the staff may place themselves in line for advancement through experience gained.

Further developments will be announced in a later issue of The Hatchet.

Sigma Mu Sigma Frat Observes Founder's Day

Major General Amos A. Fries, Chief Of Chemical Division Speaks

Epsilon Chapter of Sigma Mu Sigma observed the anniversary of the fraternity with a formal Founder's Day dinner at the house last Thursday. The honor guest was Charles W. Knappe of Baltimore, one of the founders of the fraternity and a charter member of Alpha chapter, who described the difficulties of founding the organization on a campus where secret societies were forbidden, Tri-State College.

The principal speaker was Major General Amos A. Fries, chief of the Chemical Warfare Service, retired, and an honorary member of Epsilon chapter. The general traced the activities of Masonry in the early period of our republic, and compared the American, French, and Russian revolutions, emphasizing the scope and possibilities of the Five-Year Plan.

Theodore D. Nielsen, of the General Accounting Office, spoke on behalf of the alumni.

The active chapter is well represented in the official line of local Masonic organizations. The president, Elbert Judson, is Junior Steward of Hiram Lodge, No. 10, Freeman W. Sharp is Royal Arch Captain of Eureka Chapter, No. 4, Royal Arch Masons. Howard Payne is High Priest of Mount Horeb Chapter, No. 7, R. A. M., and a member of the Grand Chapter of R. A. M. of the District of Columbia.

Foreign Service Sorority To Hear Speech By O'Neil

Miss Anna O'Neil, assistant to the Under-Secretary of State, will be the guest speaker at the first program meeting of Phi Pi Epsilon, the recently organized Foreign Service Sorority, tomorrow evening at the Kappa Delta House.

This will be the first of a series of programs planned by the sorority to keep its members informed on the activities of women in the field of State and Foreign Service.

Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of Women's Personnel Guidance, Mrs. Joshua Evans, Jr., Mrs. John Donaldson, Mrs. William Johnstone, and Mrs. Richard Owens have been invited to attend this first program meeting as guests of the sorority.

Ussaki Bulent Addresses Delta Phi Epsilon Group

Ottoman Diplomat Traces Development of the "Capitulations"

E. Ussaki Bulent, secretary of the Turkish Embassy, spoke on the subject of the "Capitulations in the New Ottoman Empire," before the members and friends of the George Washington chapter of Delta Phi Epsilon, foreign service fraternity, at a smoker, at the Theta Delta Chi House, 1714 Rhode Island Avenue.

The Ottoman diplomat, in an entertaining and concise manner, traced the history of the Capitulations and the momentous developments leading up to and following the Treaty of Lausanne, which he described as an almost incredible diplomatic accomplishment on the part of Mustafa Kemal Pasha and his political conferees. He stressed the importance of the recent social changes such as the discarding of the fez, the adoption of the Roman alphabet and the liberation of woman from her formerly restricted sphere, as a step toward mutual realization on the part of Turkey and her European neighbors that there is much in common between them.

The audience of about forty entered an informal discussion with Mr. Bulent following his talk, in the course of which many interesting details of Turkish history and life were brought out. Following this refreshment were served.

Among those present at the meeting were Dr. John Donaldson, acting dean of Columbian College; Professor James O. Murdock of the Law School; and Professor Alan Delbert of the Romance Language department, all of whom are members of Delta Phi Epsilon.

Business Takes Attention Of Modern Poetry Club

Because the rain curtailed the attendance of its members, the Modern Poetry Club limited its last meeting before the holidays to a short business session.

Dorothy Niess, president, presided, and the poetry contest which the club is sponsoring was discussed. The treasurer requested that all members pay their dues promptly, in order that there may be enough money on hand to cover the cost of the Cherry Tree picture. A drive for membership will be initiated immediately after the Easter recess.

Anyone interested is invited to attend the next meeting to be held Wednesday, April 15, at one o'clock, Room 17, Corcoran Hall. Grace Dutton will present a program featuring the late Eleanor Wylie, famous American poetess, and her works.

Dancers Adopt Constitution

At the last meeting of the Natural Dancing Club before the holidays, Harriet Atwell, the president, appointed a committee to choose a name for the club. A constitution was adopted and the time for meetings fixed. Beginning next fall they will be held every other Tuesday evening at 7:30. Several sororities have volunteered their rooms for this spring's meetings.

Jo Eileen Rudnick was appointed program chairman, and Ruth Schmidt, publicity chairman. Work on the program for the W. A. A. spring banquet will begin immediately.

THE BEST WAY to find out just what the new Humidor Pack does for Camel smokers is to switch over to this famous brand for an entire day. After you have tasted the Camel blend of choicest Turkish and mellowest Domestic tobacco kept in prime fresh condition, just quit Camels if you can. Remember, it's dust-dry cigarettes that have been robbed of their natural moisture by evaporation or scorching that sting the tongue and burn the throat. There are none of these discomforts with Camels. Try them and see for yourself.
